

The future of the spa:

With the new VITALITY BOOST, KLAFS enables automated infusion ceremonies with its precise wave technology for commercial saunas.

Infusion ceremonies by sauna masters in thermal baths, fitness studios, hotels and spas have been popular with sauna-goers for many years. They enable particularly intensive and health-promoting heat training. In line with this trend, KLAFS - the world market leader for saunas, wellness and spas - has added a world first to its product portfolio: the VITALITY BOOST for saunas is a technical innovation. With precise air circulation, the automatic infusion system allows for Wellness centres to now offer their guests an exclusive sauna experience with an infusion ceremony of consistent quality every time. For sauna guests, the intensive heat sessions maximise the health benefits of sauna bathing without compromising on the relaxation experience.

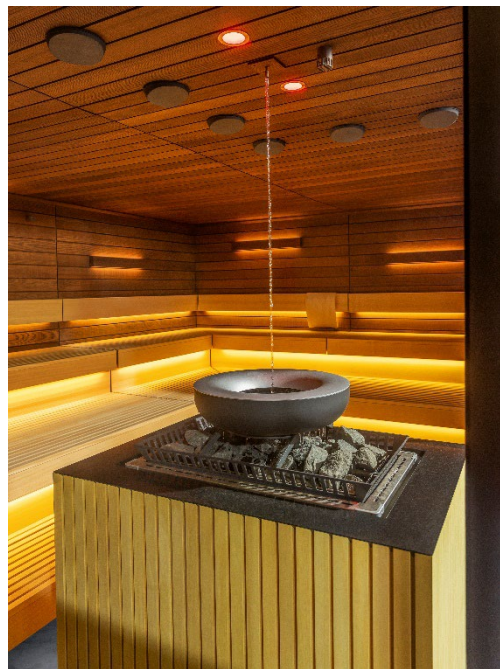

For a holistic sauna experience: intensive heat training with the VITALITY BOOST

The perfect combination of heat and cold is crucial for a holistic sauna experience. KLAFS is the first to offer a comprehensive wellness program of this kind. Whether SANARIUM® for a sauna bath at milder temperatures and high humidity, a classic Finnish sauna or the new infusion ceremony with the VITALITY BOOST - sauna guests can now enjoy the complete range from a gentle to an intensive heat session.

Innovative technology for maximum relaxation and vitality

Developed together with experts and sauna masters, the VITALITY BOOST creates real added value for commercial spas. With its innovative infusion and refinement technology, the rising heat and moisture is quickly and evenly distributed within the cabin. To begin water is poured over the sauna stones or into the infusion bowl creating a calming soundscape of gentle splashing and fizzing, while the evaporation increases the humidity and temperature in the sauna. The integrated ceiling-mounted air diffuser circulates the warm, humid air evenly to all areas of the sauna. Afterward, the additional air diffusers direct targeted airflow toward the sauna bathers. Each sauna guest is treated to a powerful stream of air which treats the skin directly and ensures a healthy increase in body temperature. The body's vitalizing functions are activated, and the cardiovascular and immune systems are strengthened. Natural aromatic fragrances are simultaneously diffused within the sauna completing the sensual experience.

To activate the automatic infusion ceremony, operators need a water outlet in addition to the sauna heater, an optional infusion bowl and the air diffusers integrated in the sauna ceiling. The infusion is activated via a button in the cabin or timer. The cycle time can be selected individually. An infusion schedule informs sauna guests about the intensity, duration, and fragrance. The announcements provided in the sauna cabin inform the sauna bather on the start and end of the infusion and give general safety instructions.

The VITALITY BOOST allows for a perfect infusion experience every time. The new sauna function enables most spas to combine the popular ceremonies of sauna masters with automated infusion events. But even in spas previously unable to offer infusions, automated infusions can now be implemented easily and without needing additional staff members. In addition, guests no longer perform infusions on their own minimising the risk of accidents and liability claims, with the duty of care being effectively fulfilled.

With the clearly defined and tested infusion parameters, operators of commercial spas can ensure that the quality of the infusions is always consistently high and that an effective sauna experience can be offered every time.

Uncomplicated retrofitting possible

Under certain conditions, the VITALITY BOOST can also be retrofitted to existing systems at a manageable cost and effort. Installation takes one to two days and does not require any extended closing times. This makes it easy to implement the VITALITY BOOST in most spa areas.

KLAFS VITALITY BOOST: an addition to the spa area with high added value

The new VITALITY BOOST function from KLAFS revolutionises the sauna experience with automated infusions and perfected wave function for maximum relaxation and vitality. This innovative system enables spa operators to offer intense infusion moments at any time of the day or week without additional staff. With its user-friendly operation, consistently high infusion quality and the option of individual customization, the VITALITY BOOST offers a pioneering solution for modern wellness facilities.
